

An aerial photograph of a coastal area with various land use patterns. A large green area, likely a park or undeveloped land, occupies the lower-left portion. To its right is a large orange-colored area, possibly a residential or commercial development. Further right are several purple and yellow areas, which could be industrial or commercial zones. A blue area, likely water, is visible along the bottom edge. A small red area is visible in the top-left corner. A road or path runs vertically through the center-right of the image.

